

SINCLAIR OPENS FIGHT AGAINST SENATE CHARGE

Lessee of Teapot Dome Denies He Is Guilty Of Contempt

Washington, April 12—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire lessee of Teapot Dome Oil reserve today, withdrew his temporary plea of not guilty to an indictment charging him with contempt of the United States senate and in its stead his lawyers filed a lengthy demurrer to the indictment questioning the whole authority of the senate to compel a private individual to answer questions of a private nature and produce the books of his business.

The demurrer filed in the District Supreme Court is the opening phase of a long heralded legal battle which probably will end by the U. S. Supreme court having to decide the extent of the senate's power in judicial procedure.

The indictment was attached in every particular each count therein being variously described as "badly repugnant, defective and vague."

In the forthcoming legal battle, Sinclair's attorneys, Martin W. Littleton, G. T. Stanford, Colonel J. W. Zevely and George P. Hoover, served notice they intended to argue on the following points of law:

1—That under the constitution the senate was without authority to compel Sinclair to answer any of the questions propounded to him.

2—That the resolution under which the senate committee was investigating the Sinclair lease had been superseded and abrogated by the latter resolution which declared the lease invalid and threw the whole case into the courts for decision.

3—That Sinclair's refusal to answer questions violated no law now existing.

FEDERAL TAXES TO BE SLASHED 434 MILLIONS

Senator Tells of Deficit To Be Created By Measure

Washington, April 12—Federal taxes will be slashed $434,720,000 next year, creating a treasury deficit of $589,444 under the tax revision bill carrying the Mellon rates and adopted by the senate finance committee Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, chairman, reported to the senate today.

There is $11,550,000 difference between the tax cut of the senate bill and the Longworth compromise bill adopted by the house.

SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL FAVORABLY REPORTED BY BODY

Washington, April 12—The soldiers' bonus bill was favorably reported to the senate today by the finance committee.

The bill, as reported, was practically identical with that passed by the house, providing for paid up insurance policies to world war veterans in lieu of cash.

The principal difference in the two bills was an amendment adopted this morning including eleven thousand women who saw service as yeomanettes, within the provisions of eligibility.

The committee did not take a formal vote on reporting the bill and only Senator King, Democrat of Utah, announced opposition to the measure. It was agreed to withhold the formal report to the senate until Tuesday, in order that the committee may decide on Monday whether to vote to give the bonus or the tax reduction bill the right of way in the senate, Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, announced.

DEMOCRATS RESENT COOLIDGE'S "REBUKE"; PLAN TO FIGHT ISSUE

Washington, April 12—Smarting under what they termed the "stinging rebuke" of the senate by President Coolidge, Democratic leaders announced today that they would wage a fight to continue the investigation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his bureau of internal revenue.

Not only did the minority chiefs resent the president's attack on the inquiry launched by Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan but they charged that the administration had gone on record as challenging the very power and authority of congressional committees, in making investigations. One of those who was particularly up in arms was Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat of Montana, who believes that without naming him the president has criticized his conduct of the investigation of naval oil reserves.

Renewing his own attack on the secretary of the treasury in the face of intimations that Mellon will quit the cabinet if "government by investigation" does not stop, Senator McKellar, Democrat of Tennessee, threatened to press for action on his resolution for investigation of Mellon's eligibility to hold office. The resolution has been permitted to rest on the table at the suggestion of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and other Democratic leaders.

The president's special message, defending Mellon and criticizing the senate was received enthusiastically by administration senators who felt that they were henceforward to get real help from the White House in their campaign to turn the senate from investigating to legislation. Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, who had proposed the halting of the Couzens inquiry before the president's message was delivered, described Mr. Coolidge's attitude as a "master stroke" while the insurgent Republicans and Democrats were quick to deny that Senator Couzens was accused by personal motives alone in his assaults on Mellon and the treasury department.

Fireworks were promised when the fight opens in the senate, probably today on the resolution of Senator Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, authorizing the Couzens committee to employ special counsel to assist in the internal revenue probe. The committee, over the protests of Senator Watson, who is the committee chairman.

RULES SCHOOLS MAY BORROW ON MONEY EXPECTED

Financially Stricken, Districts Permitted To Take Action

Coshocton, O., April 12—Financially stricken schools of Ohio may borrow money on next year's funds. There is no need for any Ohio school closing on account of shortage of funds, if a letter from A. B. Peckinpaugh, deputy supervisor in State Auditor Tracy's department, Columbus, may be taken as authority. Three members of the Coshocton school board have declared that the Coshocton schools must be closed before the end of the spring term. The other two members of the board made a trip to Columbus and obtained a letter authorizing the board to draw on future funds.

"Two members of your board have requested an opinion from this department as to the authority of your board to ask for and receive an advance on the June collection of taxes. In reply we quote section 2692 of the general code as follows:

"When the local authorities so require, the county auditor may draw and the county treasurer shall pay on such draft to township, city and village treasurers and the treasurer of any board of education, from June twentieth to December twentieth to the date of the semi annual distribution, each year, any sum not exceeding two thirds of the current collection of taxes for such local authorities as respectively, including as to boards of education the estimate distribution of the state common school fund and the levy for school purposes retained in the county to become due to the school district in advance of the semi annual settlement."

WAR ON CROW TO BE WAGED OVER COUNTY IS WORD

War on the crow as a destroyer of the eggs and young of game and useful birds, young rabbits, poultry and crops, will be carried on by the sportsmen and farmers of this vicinity this spring in an effort to save game and crops from the depredations of crows, according to Frank Edwards, secretary of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association.

The crow is declared to be the worst enemy of useful birds and responsible for more damage than any other bird in wild life. Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture has declared crows a nuisance in Ohio destroying large quantities of eggs of game birds and poultry and their young, as well as being destructive to corn plantings on farms.

A general movement against the crow is now in force throughout the country, game commissioners of thirty eight states having declared against the destructive birds. The crowd hunts all the time but is especially destructive when birds are nesting it is said, so that some species have been known to wipe out whole colonies of game birds in certain localities.

A canvass just completed in one state, is said to show that crows pick out eyes of young lambs and calves and in many cases farmers have had to go to the expense of replanting crops. In one western state a census shows there are from ten to fifteen millions of crows and that it costs the people of that state a dollar a head per year to feed them.

Sportsmen and farmers are being asked to join in the campaign by shooting the crows, but are advised that in order to do so they must have a hunter's license.

Daugherty, president of the bank and brother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

FRENCH GRATIFIED OVER ACCEPTANCE OF DAWES' PLAN

Paris, April 12—Foreign office officials expressed gratification over the unanimous acceptance of the Dawes plan by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission. They warned, however, that acceptance by the Allies is provisional upon acceptance of the plan by Germany. France will take no definite action until Berlin speaks.

"Pertainax," political editor of the Echo de Paris and authority upon international affairs, declared in an article today that the reparations commission had accepted the Dawes plan in principle only. He said the right to amend the report was not forfeited by the Allied powers.

According to "Pertainax" Louis Barthou, head of the reparations commission, made the reservation that a plan should be completed for definite control of German affairs and for definite sanctions (penalties) if Germany should fail to live up to the agreements.

The German representatives who come here for a hearing on the plan by the reparations commission next Thursday, probably will bring many protests with them. It is a striking coincidence that one complaint by both France and Germany is similar; that is the failure of the Dawes committee to fix definitely the total Germany should pay.

COURT DECISION UPHELD BY HIGHER TRIBUNAL

The Court of Appeals in a decision received here Friday, affirmed the ruling of Common Pleas Court in upholding the trust created by the will of W. Clark Hutchison in the case of Harry Sparks, executor of the estate of W. C. Hutchison against Lulu Leeper, and others.

The decision was rendered here in an action brought for construction of the will and the court held the trust was permanent. Harry A. Sparks, joint heir, was created trustee of the trust fund by the terms of the will, which position contested by the other heir, Mrs. Lulu Leeper. C. L. Darlington was attorney for the plaintiff and Marcus Shoup and A. H. Kyle for the defendant.

PSALMS ARE FAVORED

Bellaire, O., April 13—The Wheeling Presbyterian of the United Presbyterian Church, in session here, was on record today by a majority of five as in favor of the exclusive use of psalms in churches of that denomination.

ne General Harry M. Daugherty. "Our committee will take every step possible to obtain the books of the Midland bank," Brookhart said. "We will ask the senate to order Daugherty into the custody of the sergeant-at-arms. We are determined to get those books, if we have to use every power at the disposal of the government, because we believe we have found the right road to the disclosure of official corruption. The evidence gathered at Washington Court House in a single day was nothing short of amazing."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, the committee's prosecutor, did not return with Brookhart, but went to Chicago on a mission believed to be concerned with the investigation of the department of justice.

The happenings in Washington Court House verged on the sensational, featured by the flat refusal of Mal Daugherty to permit the senatorial investigators to examine his bank records and his retaliatory injunction in a state court barring Wheeler and Brookhart from going through his records.

From John Phelon a bank examiner the committee learned that former Attorney General Daugherty and the late Jesse Smith were both large depositors in the Midland bank, the Daugherty account at one time totaling $75,000. There was also mysterious evidence linking the former attorney general with the New York state license commission in connection with bank deposits.

APPEALS TO STATE SUPREME COURT IN COMPENSATION CASE

Columbus, April 12—The State Supreme Court was asked today to issue a writ of mandamus to compel the State Industrial Commission to grant a hearing to Caroline B. Davidson, of Marion, who claims compensation because of the death of her husband, Robert, although he left her eight months before his death and was not contributing to her support.

Davidson was killed January 27, 1917, while employed by the Uhler-Phillips Company, operating a clothing store in Marion. On the grounds that her husband had abandoned her before his death and was not contributing to her support, the Industrial commission refused to award her compensation and the workmen's insurance law. The case was taken to the Marion county appellate court and the claim again denied.

Mrs. Davidson now claims that the commission has been granting compensation in cases similar to her own, following a ruling that "the receipt of support from a husband is not essential to render a wife dependent."

FINISH IMPORTANT PART OF OVERLAND

More pains are taken with the Overland in matter of paint than most medium priced cars. The Overland is the only car at its price with an all steel body finish.

Three coats of enamel are permanently baked on the body and fenders at a temperature ranging from 350 to 450 degrees. In fiery ovens for a total of 165 minutes, the gleaming finish is baked into the fibre of the steel. It keeps its beauty and stands up like the car itself in spite of weather and time. They say the only sure way to tell the age of an Overland is by the calendar.

The Greene County Hardware Company, agents for the well known Studebaker cars also handles the Overland products both in Xenia and Cedarville.

STAR HAS CHOICE OF SIX MODELS TO CHOOSE FROM

The new Star Car affords a choice of six models. There are the touring car and sedan, both five passenger; the roadster and coupe, both two passenger. Then there are the special touring car and sedan, finished in attractive colors. All of these models are mounted on the improved Star Car chassis with its Durant Tubular Backbone, famous motor and other mechanical features of advanced design and accessibility.

The new Star Car has all the advantages of the old. There is ample proof of performance ability. Although introduced only last year, the original Star Car has demonstrated its merits in the service of 120,000 owners. And the new Star Car has greater claim to popularity than the old.

The body lines follow the suggestion of the front end—streamline, trim, low, setting the whole car off in excellent proportions and good taste.

The low top of the one-man type with its gypsy curtains completes the pleasing effect of the whole.

Fenders, hood sills, side aprons and running board are all of new design and heavy gauge metal, all in keeping with the refined quality of the car throughout.

Heavier woodwork all through the frame, supports all the body metal at all points, giving great sturdiness to the whole and assuring the preservation of body panels and finish.

The doors are constructed with flanges overlapping the door openings, and concealed hinges. This is the same construction used on the highest priced cars. It not only gives the neatest possible appearance but insures a snug fit and prevents rattling. The doors are also equipped with sockets and curtain rods are provided so that curtain panels open and close with the doors and a neat appearance is always maintained when curtains are used. An improved type of tire carrier and license plate holder are added features.

Dickman and Johnston, North Whiteman Street handle all Durant products including the popular Flint car.

GIVE REASONS FOR BUICK'S STANDARD OF AUTO VALUES

Buick dealers today give reasons why their product has been able to maintain its standard of value. They are:

First—by being absolutely certain that correct engineering principles were used as a basis on which to build the Buick car. Wide experience and careful research showed the value of the Valve-in-Head principle of motor construction, and Buick adopted this principle at the outset. Every other part of the car was built on principles that were equally sound. Buick's problem from year to year then became merely a question of incorporating in the car the improvements developed by each year's experience, without changing the basic principles of design.

Second—Buick realized the importance of developing a factory along the lines of the highest efficiency in which every important part of the Buick could be built under the careful supervision of the engineering department that designed the product.

Third—Buick realized the importance of developing a sales and service organization, nation-wide in scope, that would make it possible for motorists everywhere to purchase Buick cars, and that would insure Buick owners of high grade Authorized Buick service. In keeping with the quality built into the Buick product at its factory.

In short, by building a quality car on correct mechanical principles in a thoroughly efficient factory, and backing it up with a nation-wide service, Buick has won a leading place in the automobile industry.

As a result of the development of these three policies as well as careful attention to every other detail of the problem, Buick sales have increased by leaps and bounds each year.

MARRIAGE PERFORMED IN YELLOW SPRINGS SATURDAY

Miss Enid May Lingo, daughter of Mrs. Ada Lingo, of Yellow Springs, became the bride of Mr. Warie Clifford Williams, of Husted, Ohio, during a proxy ceremony performed at the parsonage of the Yellow Springs Methodist Church, the Rev. W. H. Whitmer, officiating, Saturday morning at 11:45 o'clock.

The couple was attended by the bride's sister, Miss Helen Marie Lingo, who acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. William Houston, of Centerville, Ohio, best man. The bride's dress was fashioned of white crepe de chine, and she wore a corsage of pink sweet peas. Her maid wore orchid crepe de chine, with a corsage of sweet peas.

The ceremony was followed by a family dinner at the Lingo home, at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Williams left Saturday afternoon for Ludlow Falls, Ohio, where they will spend their honeymoon with relatives. They will reside at Husted, Ohio, near Springfield.

WATCHING OHIO AT WASHINGTON

By ALFRED P. RECK

The old florist's slogan "Say it with flowers" seems to have changed into one "Say it with tea" as this is the latest form of propaganda directed at congress. An early morning delivery of mail to the homes of the Ohio members as well as to the homes of other representatives in congress, brought a well wrapped package in which was inclosed a half-pound can of the finest Japanese oolong tea. The package was accompanied by a letter from H. Tabusa, of New York saying that his government had directed him to send it.

Congressman John L. Cable, of Lima, sent his package back without opening it. The Johnson immigration bill, containing the Japanese exclusion provision, is now up in the house and many members have expressed wonder as to whether or not there was any connection between the consideration of the bill and the distribution of the tea.

Chairman Johnson, of the immigration committee, said, "We are going to pass the bill without crossing an 'I' or drinking a 'T.'" All of the California delegation and many of the Ohio delegation are standing solidly for the exclusion section.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Yellow Springs, has been selected to deliver the principal Memorial Day address at the Arlington amphitheater this year. This is regarded as a distinct tribute to the eloquence and popularity of the junior Senator from Ohio.

President Coolidge will make a short talk and will be followed immediately by Senator Fess. All of the addresses and ceremonies will be broadcast through one of the Washington radio stations.

Although Arlington has long been one of the shrines of the American people it has increased in popularity as a mecca for visitors since the establishment of the Unknown Soldier directly in front of the amphitheater.

"Benny" Eleison, former McCook field, Dayton, flyer, has been given the unique title of "The Moose Ptarmigan" by Alaskan Indians, according to information reaching the Post office Department. Eleison is now a U. S. Mail Service pilot flying in Alaska.

His down title was given after he had flown the first airplane to McGrath, Alaska, where the Indians had waited for days to see the "bird-man" deliver the mail by air instead of dog-team. The Yukon Indians want him as a member of their tribe with the rank of "Chief."

Through the suggestion of Congressman Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, the appropriations committee of the house granted the sum of $93,185 to repair the base of the Perry Memorial at Put-in-Bay so the second highest monument in the world can be saved from possible destruction.

For the past ten years those interested in the monument have been trying to get an appropriation through congress for repair work as the base of the memorial was slowly being undermined by the wash of the Lake Erie waters. Congressman Murphy's suggestion was to the effect that the money appropriated would be returned to the federal government in yearly installments from the revenue derived from the memorial in admissions, etc., after the sum needed for maintenance was taken out. This was approved by the committee and the appropriation passed the house.

The Perry Memorial is one of the most impressive monuments in the United States and in height, 352 feet, stands second only to that erected to Washington. It is located at Put-in-Bay and overlooks the historical spot of the famous battle of Lake Erie fought during the War of 1812.

In a telegram to Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Dayton, former Governor James M. Cox endorsed the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act, a bill similar to which Mr. Fitzgerald is backing for the District of Columbia. Insurance companies have waged a bitter fight against the passage of the Fitzgerald bill and the statement was made that the Ohio law is a failure.

This brought the following denial from the ex-Governor, who was Ohio's chief executive when the law was enacted: "The Ohio law is a model instrument and the state fund is one of its best features."

Fitzgerald's bill is expected to be used as model for the States without such provisions in their laws, to follow.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth's speech at Philadelphia, in which he voiced praise for the President and the Republican party and condemnation for the Democrats, has brought forth a multitude of varied comments.

The Republican floor leader from Cincinnati stated that he felt certain that a calm perusal and weighing of the record of the Republican party during the present administration will prove its title to another lease of power. Democratic leaders in the house expressed their resentment over Mr. Longworth's comment that he thought a fitting emblem for the Democratic party in the next campaign should be the buzzard.

Speaking of the recent investigations in the senate, Mr. Longworth said, "Some of us are becoming tired and I think the country is getting very tired of the mass of vituperation and slush designed to blast the reputations of honest men with reflections upon the dead as well as upon the living, which crowd the pages of the Congressional Record and prevent the transaction of the business which the country demands and has the right to demand, shall be speedily transacted."

Senator Frank B. Willis, of Delaware, saved the day for veterans of the Civil war and their widows when the Bursum Pension bill was up for consideration in the senate. An amendment was offered that would make the bill ineffective until June 30, 1925. Senator Willis took the floor against this amendment and secured its defeat.

"Either this bill ought to pass now or it ought not to pass at all," declared the senator, "Whatever justification there is for this measure—and I think there is ample justification—resides in the fact that there is need now for the passage of the bill. I think it would be a most unjust and unfair way of handling this proposition to say to the soldiers and their widows, 'We admit that this legislation ought to be enacted. We will pass it but we will make it take effect after about 50,000 more of you are dead. Just wait; as you die you will save the government money."

Other members agreed with Senator Willis and the amendment was defeated.

AUTOMOBILES AND TELEPHONES ABOUT EQUAL IN NUMBER

Two of the most generally used mediums of business and social progress are running a race in Ohio for numerical supremacy, according to figures compiled from state records in Columbus.

One represents communication—the telephone. The other is the passenger automobile, representing locomotion. The race is close, with the telephone in the lead. The state contains more than 1,000,000 telephones and more than 900,000 passenger automobiles. With trucks figured in, the number of automobiles also is above the million mark, making one telephone and one automobile to every other family in Ohio—a "neck-and-neck" marathon.

"Records show that there are 4,050 telephones and 4,000 automobiles in Greene County," said H. W. Cleaver, Commercial Manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in Xenia.

Both telephone and automobile are products of the last half-century. The telephone has an offspring which has taken to the air—the radio telephone. The automobile's child is the airplane. In 1923 it was estimated there were 14,500,000 telephones in the United States and 12,500,000 automobiles. In Ohio there is one telephone and one automobile for every two families.

Mrs. Elizabeth Heitesman, of Logansport, Indiana, left Friday for her home, after a two weeks' visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wood, of West Main Street.

Miss Bertha Hyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Hyman, of East Market Street, received a broken ankle bone, when she fell while skating on East Second Street, Thursday night. Her injury was thought at first to be a severe sprain but an X-ray examination revealed a broken bone.

FARM PROGRESS

LITERARY QUILT BASED ON RURAL LIFE IN AMERICA

"Bit by bit, American authors are weaving a national literary quilt based on the regional differences in rural America."

C. E. Lively, professor of rural economics at the Ohio State University, writes this in introducing a list of books of fiction drawn from American country life. This list of 43 titles, all of them comparatively recent, will be sent to county extension agents and will be available for distribution from the University.

Formation of this "literary quilt is inevitable in a county with such distinct regional differences as rural America," continues Prof. Lively. "Each region is furnishing its characteristic patch dyed with its local color."

"Here are some of the more prominent of these regional trends: New England country life is portrayed by Merritt P. Allen in "In Greenbrook," Sara Ware Bassett in "Granite and Clay" and "The Harbor Road," William D. Polly in "The Gog," and Joseph C. Lincoln in "Doctor Nye."

"The Middle West is variously treated Herbert Quick and Margaret Wilson write of Iowa. The first has Vandemack's Polly" and "The Hawkeye," and the latter "The Able McLaughlins." Willa Cather writes of Nebraska in "One of Ours" and "My Antonia." Sherwood Anderson centers several stories in Ohio as does Charles D. Stewart in "Valley Waters."

"Anthony M. Reed, in 'The Second Generation,' and Zona Gale write of Wisconsin, and the Red River country receives treatment at the hands of John T. Frederick in 'Druidas,' Sinclair Lewis in 'Main Street' and others. Writers like Hamlin Garland and Emerson Hough treat this midwest area generally."

PARIS HOTELKEEPERS PLAN TO SQUEEZE TOURISTS DRY
A late Paris dispatch says: The tourist army which is coming over this summer to attend the Olympic games had better buy return tickets before quitting the shores of the United States as they will have nothing left after the Paris hotelkeepers finish with them.

From the vanguard which has already arrived and which is filling to capacity all the larger hotels a wall is going up which echoes all the way from the Montmartre to Montparnasse.

Room rates are now double what they were last autumn and the end of the extortion is not yet in sight. Many permanent guests living at some hotels have been forced to leave, as they were unable to make ends meet and pay the increased charges. It is difficult to find a double room with bath in any central hotel for less than $9 a day, and prices in the more luxurious establishments are soaring to dizzy heights. A hundred francs a day is the average price for a single room and bath in hotels which have never classed themselves as fashionable.

When a protest is made the managers talk vaguely about "exchange," but the rate of exchange is approximately where it was a year ago. The pay of the employees in many hotels was raised slightly when the franc hit its lowest level and the hotels now have to pay a 12 per cent tax instead of 10, but this increase in the cost of management is only a fraction of the increase in the room rates. The real reason for the gouging is that the demands for accommodations greatly exceed the supply.

Three great tourist years are foreseen, due to the Olympic games, the Exposition of Decorative Arts next year and the Colonial Exposition in 1926. The great influx of visitors has added to the existing serious housing shortage in Paris and will result in the goose that lays the golden eggs being worked overtime unless the visiting public strikes or the Government steps in, as some think will be the case.

In addition to profiteering, a public-be-damned attitude has been adopted by the managers of most of the large hotels, some even refusing to book reservations, saying they are "sure of getting capacity bookings without having to bother with promising rooms for people who may not arrive when they say they will."

To the credit of the restaurateurs, it can be stated that their prices have been only slightly advanced up to the present—the increase being due to the rise in the cost of foodstuffs—but it is feared they will later be influenced by the bad example of the hotels.

THE "EXPERTS" WORK OUGHT TO MAKE PEACE

Baron Houtart, chief of the Belgian delegation on the Dawes committee, says:

"Our plans are based on full possession by the Reich of the financial resources furnished by the occupied territories—taxes, duties and railroad receipts—which today are administered by the Allies. The question of military occupation being removed from the limit of discussion among the experts, it was a question of choosing whether to have German exploitation of certain territories or of extending the control of the Allies—one or the other. Their is not one single point which is not now settled, although hour work has been long and arduous. The report bears traces of the difficulties we have encountered and the complexities of the problems we have solved in detail.

"But what is necessary at all costs is that the opinion of the world be unanimous in recognizing that the plan we propose was conceived in a spirit of sincerity, justice and equity and that Germany no longer will be able to escape payment without incurring universal reprobation.

"To make Germany agree to the report the pressure of the public opinion of all nations is necessary."

EXTINCTION OF THE HORSE

From the Washington Star.

Another scientist says that the horse is to be extinct, and he sets the date a century hence. The extinction process may be at work, but whether the horse will go to the vanishing point in that time one does not know. If horses would decrease in the same ratio as in the last ten or twenty years, it might be easy to tell when the last horse would give up his stall to an automobile and pass on to that realm where good horses should go, and perhaps where old Pegasus still rears and canthers through the clouds. But the decrease in horse population—or in "hippulation"—may not decrease in arithmetical progression, and we may still find a horse on a farm near Washington as we now find a white turkey, a hand churn, a muley cow, a hearth broom of sedge, or something else quaint and rare.

IT PAYS—THAT IS, ABOVE THE MASON AND DIXON LINE

There is one standard American play—"Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is the drama that lasts. At least twelve companies are on the road this season playing it, according to a Broadway theatrical manager, who has just dropped $50,000 backing a beautifully written play of modern society.

He added that he had been gathering data upon "Uncle Tom" for the reason that his instincts dictated that it was due for a Broadway revival. He learned that the "Uncle Tom" companies invariably did business—that is, above the Mason and Dixon line.

In addition to the road shows which invade the New England circuit and Middle Western little towns, there are scores of sporadic productions on river boats, under canvas and in halls under the auspices of community players. Fortunes have been made from "Uncle Tom" shows by producers whose names are scarcely known in the theatrical circles of New York.

THE FRIEND WHO KNOWS

When comes the bitter time of doubt
And hope is vain and all is lost,
And all your strength has flitted out,
And your poor soul is tempest-tossed,
How good it is to turn and see
The glad face of a smiling friend,
And hear him whisper tenderly:
"The worst of troubles soon must end."

When you are bowed in deep despair
And wonder, as you look about,
If from your cavern dark with care
There is to be no passage out,
How good it is to turn and see
A true friend standing at the door,
And hear him say: "Come, follow me,
I have been through this thing before."

When all your failing strength seems Worn,
And bitterly you sit and sigh
And think that never more again

The sun will clear your troubled sky,
How good it is to find a friend
Is standing by and hear him say:
"Cheer up! I'm with you to the end,
Come on, old pal, I know the way."

Easter seems an appropriate time to give a party for children. Fluffy chicks, stunning bunnies, Spring flowers, and other symbols of the Easter season are especially appropriate decorations for a party given to those who are still in the stage of childhood's sweetness and innocence.

Games and refreshments are the two chief considerations. The house of the hostess need not be decorated, indeed even the refreshment table requires only little yellow crepe-paper baskets filled with candies, some jonquils in the center, a few chickens or downy ducklings, etc., to delight the little ones. The following contents are appropriate:

Pussy Willow: Each child is given a spray of pussy willow, a pencil, and a paper, and told to draw a picture of his particular spray. Five minutes is the time allowed for this work. At the end of the period the hostess decides which little artist has been most successful and awards, as a prize, one of the sugar easter eggs which have a picture inside of it.

Egg Hunt: No juvenile easter party is complete without the old-time egg hunt, but today it is played with colored paper eggs. (Modern high prices of food make this change necessary.) The hostess cuts the eggs from white paper or cardboard before the party, and colors them with crayons or paints them with water colors. She then conceals them in various hiding places around the living room—all ready to be found by the little folk in the five minutes allowed for the search. A chocolate candy bunny might be a good prize to give to the child who finds the most hidden eggs.

Chicken Tag: This is a good out-of-doors game. Give each child a yellow cotton chicken (such as may be bought for five cents or less) and tell them to play tag in the old way, except that the one who is "it" must tag the other children by touching them with his chicken or else the touch will not be counted.

For children the refreshments should be very simple: Iced Cocoa or Hot Cocoa, simple cup-cakes decorated by yellow frosting (to obtain this color mix raw egg-yolk with ordinary uncooked frosting before spreading), chicken sandwiches, jelly sandwiches, and simple candies.

THE PEACE OF BEING RIGHT

One of the most inspiring plays I have seen in years is the one that William Hodge is now playing in, called "For All of Us."

When the play is over there is a sweet, fine feeling left in your heart, and you go home from it sorry for all your mistakes and with a desire in your whole being to play to the right.

It was William Hodge who once said: "The only way to be great is to be right."

I can understand why so many great men have died disappointed and unappreciated. You see, they cared more about being right than for anything else. Fame, money, popularity, immediate pleasure, had for them no charm. But there was something very precious in the peace of being right that they kept as their own.

I have heard folks say that it doesn't take any special courage to do right. I disagree. I find that it takes great courage to do right. There are so many things that come up to make the wrong thing look so much more pleasant than the right thing.

We can do the wrong thing and have joyous company—but to do the right thing one so often has to go it alone.

But in the end one has company—for there are many who find that the peace of being right is the only thing worth striving for.

Many times people put off trying for this sort of peace for years and years. They seem to think that it's a better plan to try everything else first, instead of trying out the right thing first. And so they arrive late—but if they arrive at all, nothing can describe their happiness for it washes away everything else that is trivial.

If you ever get to the point where you seem "all at sea," just consider what is the right thing to do, under the circumstances. Then do it! You will be surprised how soon the pilot of your heart brings you safely to a happy port.

BEFORE BABIES WERE BORN

Mrs. Oswald Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Girardville, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my last two babies came. It keeps me in perfect health and I am on my feet getting meals and doing all my housework until an hour before the baby is born. A friend told me to take it and I have used ten bottles since I heard about it. I recommend the Vegetable Compound whenever I can. Just yesterday a friend was telling me how miserable she felt, and I said, 'If you start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's you will feel fine. Now she is taking it.'—Mrs. P. J. Oswald, Jr., 406 W. Ogden St., Girardville, Pa.

Mrs. Nicola Paluzzi Says

Mishawaka, Indiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness before my babies were born. I was weak and tired out all the time and it helped me. When I had inward inflammation the doctor treated me, but it did not help me, so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash and it helped me right away. I will always have your medicines."—Mrs. NICOLA PALUZZI, 415 E. Broadway, Mishawaka, Indiana.

COURT NEWS

ALLEGED FRAUD

Alleging she was fraudulently mulcted of $761.25 due her on an insurance policy carried by her son, Denver Hapner, Emma Hapner has filed suit in Common Pleas Court naming her daughter-in-law, Jessie Hapner and The Peoples Building and Savings Co. defendants.

The plaintiff alleges she was made beneficiary in a policy carried by her son in the Voluntary Releif Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad with which he was employed, and that a voucher and check made payable to the plaintiff was given her after his death by J. E. Daly, assistant trainmaster of the railroad here.

She alleges the defendant, Jessie Hapner, surreptitiously, and wrongfully took possession of the voucher and kept it and fraudulently induced and procured the endorsement of the plaintiff on the back of it, telling her she would have to sign it to get her money. The petition alleges the defendant then deposited $700 of the money in The Peoples Building and Savings Company in her own name, gave the plaintiff $50 and kept $11.25 for herself. She asks temporary restraining orders prohibiting the defendant, Jessie Hapner, drawing out the money or the officers of the savings company paying any of it out and an order of the court directing the savings company to change the deposit to the name of the plaintiff. Marcus Shoup is attorney for the plaintiff.

SUITS FILED ON ACCOUNT

The McDowell and Torrence Lumber Company has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Wilberforce University to collect a judgment in the sum of $478.31 alleged due on account for building material. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

SUES ON NOTE

The Greene County Hardware Company is plaintiff in an action in Common Pleas Court against B. M. Leach to recover $210 and interest alleged due on a promissory note, originally executed for $250. Marcus Shoup is attorney for the plaintiff.

Dr. A. C. Messenger, Xenia, well-known local physician, is announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for State Senator from the Fifth-Sixth Senatorial district.

Although Dr. Messenger has held several public offices, being a member of the Xenia city board of education twelve years and city health officer eight years, his present announcement marks his formal entrance into the purely political field.

Dr. Messenger was born and reared in Ohio and under Governor McKinley was appointed resident physician at the O. S. and S. O. Home, which position he held twelve years. Leaving the home, he established a practice here and for the last ten years his son Dr. H. C. Messenger has been associated with him.

Dr. Messenger was a captain in the Medical Corps during the World War, assigned to Wilbur Wright Field. He is an ex-president of the Greene County Medical Society, president of the Xenia Masonic Club and the Greene County Shrine Club and for thirty years has been a member of the official board of the First Presbyterian Church. He is also a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M., D. of A., and I. O. O. F.

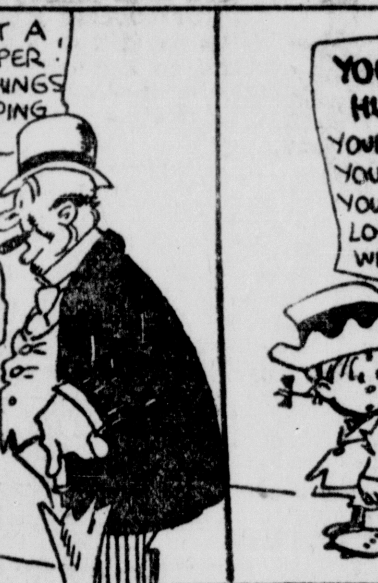

The announcement puts two candidates in the field, L. T. Marshall, Xenia, having declared his candidacy. Under the rotation rule in effect in the district, this is Greene County's year to name the candidate.

Timely Tips and Suggestions on the Latest Diagrams and Hookups—Simplified

A RADIO FREQUENCY RECEIVER

A Circuit that Will Not Spoil Your Neighbors' Fun.

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer

Too much criticism cannot be directed against the greatest obstruction to the advancement of radio today—radiating receiving sets. Criticism alone is valueless. Criticism together with a suggested remedy, constructive criticism, should be welcomed.

There is too much being said and too little being done to correct this evil. Laws, acts of congress, vigilant committees of justly angry radio fans; all will be found of no avail to combat the construction of favorite transmitting circuits for receiving purposes.

The conversion of present receivers into the radio frequency type of receiver will help a great deal. The change will be made due to an increasing respect for the better quality, distance and fine tuning that can be secured through the use of radio frequency.

Change Your Circuit
If you are present using the conventional form of a variocoupler unit with a variometer in the plate lead of the detector, I would suggest that you try the above circuit. No additional apparatus will be necessary except an additional tube, socket, rheostat, and B battery.

The additional volume you will secure by using this circuit will not be as great as the use of a stage of audio frequency, yet I find that I can operate a loud speaker very nicely on local stations with this receiver. The quality of the music is surprisingly free from the distortion that is always present with a regenerative receiver when it is operated near the oscillating point of the tube.

If you are constructing your first receiver, this circuit will be a very good one to build. You can later add two stages of audio frequency amplification, making it a four tube receiver.

Apparatus Needed
This receiver will go into a 6 by 18 cabinet very nicely. To provide for the addition of two more stages later on it would be a good policy to secure a 7 by 21 cabinet and panel and leave room in the end for the additional apparatus.

A variocoupler and a variometer will be needed. The moulded type will be satisfactory. A twenty-three plate condenser, two tub sockets, two rheostats to control the tubes you are going to use, a variable grid leak and a telephone jack will be all the apparatus required.

A forty-five volt B battery and a filament battery will also be necessary. An amplifier and a detector tube are required. WD 11, WD 12, UV 199, C 299, tubes work well as detectors and amplifiers. If you desire to use the storage battery type of tube the UV 201-A or C 301-A should be used for the radio frequency tube with a UV 200 or C 300 for a detector.

How Circuit Functions
This type of receiver is often called "Tuned Radio Frequency," on account of the fact that a variometer is used in the place of a radio frequency transformer. The disadvantage of transformer tuned radio frequency is that it is difficult, in fact, almost impossible to find a transformer that has efficient amplification over the wavelength range of 250 to 550 meters.

With the use of a variometer it is possible to effectively tune the circuit between the radio amplifier tube and the detector so that a maximum of transfer of energy takes place on the wavelength range of the variometer. In radio frequency amplification using transformers it is usually necessary to employ a potentiometer across the terminals of the filament battery with the sliding contact connected to the grid return circuit to prevent the set from oscillating. In this receiver the variometer controls the circuit so that oscillations can be eliminated.

Two Rheostats Necessary.
It will not be good policy for you to try to reduce expense by using one rheostat to control the two tubes. The reason for this is that the two tubes, may be of different characteristics and require different amounts of filament current. Again you may use a UV 201 A for the radio amplifier and a UV 200 detector tube. The two tubes will not work on one rheostat.

As a general rule the radio frequency tube will need more filament current and a great deal more B battery potential than the detector. Burn the tube brightly and use at least 45 or more volts of B battery.

BEAVERCREEK

Mt. Zion Reformed Church—Sunday School at 1:30 and Worship at 2:30 p. m. Thursday afternoon of this week the Ladies' Aid planted two Copper Beech trees on the Parsonage lawn. The all day meeting of the Ladies' Aid last Thursday was well attended—Mother Black who is living with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Shoup was the guest of honor. Following the dinner Mr. George Smith made a report on the Electric Light movement which is being agitated in the community. The lighting system of the church is unsafe and is not being used. The report given was encouraging and the rough estimate cost to Mt. Zion was $500 as its share. Since this is about the cost of a Delco sentiment favored working for the Dayton-Power and Light which is a permanent thing and cheaper in the long run. The next step will be the planning and estimating of cost for wiring the church. The following report of the treasurer covering the 25 years of the activity was given. Amount received at socials and entertainments $1079.11 from collections and free will offerings $528.05. Seventy-five sale dinners were served. The amount paid out for all expenses during the twenty-five years was $2,501.28 leaving a total balance of $965.08 in the treasury. The total receipts for the twenty-five years was $3577.43.

The Sunday School Treasurer, Mr. Floyds Camden, made his first quarterly report on Sunday which is as follows: Collections for school $34.82. Collections for Missions $5.45. Total $40.27. Total expenses of school $37.06. Paid out for Missions $10.00. Total expenses $47.06. Brought forward from Jan. 1 is $87.38 which added to total collections makes $127.65. Balance in Mission funds $17.18 and in S. School Treas. $63.41.

Broadcasting Bill's Radiolays

By WILLIAM E. DOUGLASS

When I think of the hours and hours I spent in waitin' on my wife back in those days of courtship long before our married strife! Those precious moments wasted while she curled her golden hair, I set in the parlor on her Dad's best hair-cloth chair! The young folks of that day ain't age don't do like that at all there ain't a second wasted when th' young buck comes to call. Her father meets him at the door an' sez "Good evenin' Joe." "The daughter's upstairs dollin' up. Come here my Radio." Since Joe's a wireless bug himself of course he doesn't care how long it takes his sweetie when there's something on the air. Those early courtin' days of mine were not at all like these when I sat in the parlor with the album on my knees. That precious red plush 'headroom' with its unsmling faces once answered for the purpose that the "Did I keep yu waitin' Sheik".

OPERA HOUSE TO-NIGHT

The heart-appealing story of a loveable old derelict (Tully Marshall), who shaped the destinies of a beautiful girl of the London streets (Betty Compson), a young society wastrel (Richard Dix), and a great man of England (Lewis Stone).

John Galsworthy tells it as only a genius could, and the direction is a thing inspired.

CENTRAL NINE DROPS OPENER TO JAMESTOWN

A team playing under the name of Jamestown High School, but composed of an aggregation of amateur stars and semi-pros, defeated Central High in the season's diamond debut at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Friday afternoon 10 to 3.

Coach Earl Burger's tossers took their leading in the first inning before they settled down to play baseball. Ragged support behind Schwab who pitched good baseball, lost the game for the locals, as the blue and white infielders were terrible on pop-up flies and ground balls.

Schwab gave a masterful exhibition on the mound and would have come through with a victory if his teammates had played ball behind him. He fanned ten of the visitors during the seven innings.

Wells, Bowersville High School product, who pitches for the Bowersville independent team, started the game for the visitors but was not in extra good form. Bruce Parker, of Jamestown, a semi-pro and bush league hurler of considerable experience, worked one inning and Glass, another semi-pro finished the game.

The score:
Jamestown7 1 1 0 1 0-13
Central1 2 0 0 0 0-3

Batteries: Jamestown: Wells, Parker, Glass and Toland; Central: Schwab and Botorff. Umpire: Rachford.

Ernie Ross, Cosper, knocked out Eddie Lynch, Cleveland, in fourth.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE

S. B. Mathewson, of Springfield, explained the color system, as worked out by Professor Munsell, before students at Antioch College, Tuesday night.

Professor Munsell has perfected a color scale like a musical scale, the speaker explained. "Imagine calling a note of music, 'canary' 'cockatoo' or 'whip-poor-will' but that is what we do with colors," he said.

"Hue is the first dimension of color," he continued, "that is the difference in the wave lengths, value is the second dimension. Value is the amount of light reflected to the eye. Chroma, or the third dimension, is the intensity of hue in the purity of one wave length."

Mr. Mathewson illustrated his talk with slides and with dresses that had been designed according to the Munsell color system.

Spring vacation for Antioch College students began Thursday morning. Members of "B" Division will have until Monday when they will resume their industrial work. Monday and Tuesday of next week will be devoted by Division A students' vacation period. Students in Division "C" will have the entire time for vacation.

A book of essays by Dr. Charles Eliott, president emeritus of Harvard University, has been presented at Antioch College. Dr. Eliott recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday.

In describing the book, President Arthur E. Morgan, a personal friend of the author, related a number of interesting incidents about the writer.

Dr. Eliott has endorsed the Antioch plan of combining the practical and theoretical training in college.

Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, left Thursday night on a trip through the West, in the interest of the school

URGE ATTENDANCE AT MEETING WHEN JUDGE WILL SPEAK

Every citizen of Greene County is urged to attend the meeting at the Jean B. Elwell auditorium at Central High School sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, when Judge Reed M. Powell, of Jackson, Ohio, Ohio's vice-president-at-large of the P. T. A. work, will speak Monday evening.

Judge Powell will speak at 8 o'clock. Judge Powell passed his bar examination in 1916, a few months after his marriage. Less than a year later, he volunteered for service in the World War, after spending the year 1916-17 with the O. N. G., on the Mexican Border. He organized F. 134th Artillery of the 37th Division and later served with his outfit in France, returning a First Lieutenant in April of 1919.

His ability as a leader of civic affairs, in Jackson, Ohio, led to his election as vice-president of the Ohio P. T. A.

His appearance here is a distinct honor to the members of the Central High School Parent-Teacher Association, "the only active high school organization in the state" and other organizations in the city.

BISHOP REESE TO PREACH IN XENIA

Bishop Theodore I. Reese, of Columbus, will preach in the morning Easter Sunday, at Christ Episcopal Church, as well as conduct the communion service, it has been announced.

He definitely accepted the invitations to do so last Tuesday, setting aside other requests to be here. This is a signal honor for the local parish, since it is the first time a bishop has been in Xenia Easter Sunday.

Bishop Reese is well known as a speaker of more than usual ability, and his presence will be an outstanding point in the observance of Easter in the city.

JOINT INSURANCE

PEOPLE

A joint-life insurance policy protects both husband and wife at the same time, and costs less than the premiums on two separate policies.

A unique type of insurance policy with which many people are unfamiliar is the joint-life policy. Under such a policy two or more persons may be insured in favor of each other, the policy to terminate and be paid upon the death of the first one.

The premium on a joint-life policy is naturally larger than the premium would be on a policy insuring but one life, because under a joint policy the company must pay if either of two beneficiaries die, but on the other hand the premium is less than the sum of premiums on policies insuring two lives separately.

On the two separate policies the company's liability is greater because two policies must eventually be paid, while under the joint-life policy only one claim must be paid.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

So, bringing up the father and led the way. He turned to wave his hand once more to Margaret and Lady Cynthia, however, and he looked with approval at the luncheon table which a couple of servants were laying under the cedar tree.

"Wonderful thing, these alfresco meals," he declared. "I hope Hedges won't forget the gharaschino with the melons. Come into my den, Ledsam."

He led the way in courtly fashion. He was the ideal host leading a valued guest to his sanctum for a few moments' pleasant conversation. But when they arrived in the little beamed room and the door was closed, his manner changed. He looked searchingly, almost challengingly at Francis.

"You have news for me?" he asked.

"Yes," Francis answered.

Sir Timothy shrugged his shoulders. He threw himself a little wearily into an easy-chair. His hands strayed out toward a cigarette box. He selected one and lit it.

"I expected your friend, Mr. Shopland," he murmured. "I hope he is none the worse for his ducking."

"Shopland is a fool," Francis replied. "He has nothing to do with this affair, anyway. I have something to give you, Sir Timothy."

He took the two papers from his pocket and handed them over.

"I bought these from John Walter the day before yesterday," he continued. "I gave him two hundred pounds for them. The money was just in time. He caught a steamer for Australia late in the afternoon. I had this wireless from him this morning."

Sir Timothy studied the two documents, read the wireless. There was little change in his face. Only for a single moment his lips quivered.

"What does this mean?" he asked, rising to his feet with the documents in his hand.

"It means that those papers are yours to do what you like with. I drafted the second one so that you should be absolutely secure against any further attempt at blackmail. As a matter of fact, though, Walter is on his last legs. I doubt whether he will live to land in Australia."

"You know that I killed Oliver Hilditch?" Sir Timothy said, his eyes fixed upon the other's.

"I know that you killed Oliver Hilditch," Francis repeated. "If I had been Margaret's father, I think that I should have done the same."

Sir Timothy seemed suddenly very much younger. The droop of his lips was no longer pathetic. There was a little humorous twitch there.

"You, the great upholder of the law?" he murmured.

"I have heard the story of Oliver Hilditch's life," Francis replied. "I was partially responsible for saving him from the gallows. I repeat what I have said. And if you will—"

He held out his hand. Sir Timothy hesitated for one moment. Instead of taking it, he laid his hand upon Francis' shoulder.

"Ledsam," he said, "we have thought wrong things of one another. I thought you a prig, moral to your finger-tips with the morality of the law and the small places. Perhaps I was tempted for that reason to give you a wrong impression of myself. But you must understand this: Though I have had my standard and lived up to it all my life, I am something of a black sheep. A man stole my wife. I did not trouble the law courts. I killed him."

"I have the blood of generations of lawyers in my veins," Francis declared, "but I have read many a divorce case in which I think it would have been better and finer if the two men had met as you and that man met."

"I was born with the love of fighting in my bones," Sir Timothy went on. "In my younger days, I fought in every small war in the southern hemisphere. I fought, as you know, in our own war. I have loved to see men fight honestly and fairly."

"It is a man's hobby," Francis pronounced.

"I encouraged you deliberately to think," Sir Timothy went on, "what half the world thinks—that my parties at the Walled House were mysterious orgies of vice. They have, as a matter of fact, never been anything of the sort. The tragedies which are supposed to have taken place on my launch have been just as much mock tragedies as last night's, only I have not previously chosen to take the audiences into my confidence. The greatest pugilists in the world have fought in my gymnasium, often, if you will, under illegal conditions, but there has never been a fight that was not fair."

"I believe that," Francis said.

"And there is another matter for which I take some blame," Sir Timothy went on, "the matter of Fairfax and Victor Bidlake. They were neither of them young men for whose loss the world is any the worse. Fairfax to some extent imposed upon me. He was brought to the Walled House by a friend who should have known better. He sought my confidence. The story he told was exactly that of the mock drama upon the launch. Bidlake had taken his wife. He had no wish to appeal to the courts. He wished to fight, a point of view with which I entirely sympathized. I arranged a fight between the two. Bidlake funkled it and never turned up. My advice to Fairfax was, whenever he met Bidlake, to give him the soundest thrashing he could. That night at Soto's I caught sight of Fairfax some time before dinner. He was talking to the woman who had been his wife, and he had evidently been drinking. He drew me on one side. 'Tonight,' he told me, 'I am going to settle accounts with Bidlake.' 'Where?' I asked. 'Here,' he answered. He went out to the theater, I upstairs to dine. That was the extent of the knowledge I possessed which enabled me to predict some unwelcome happening that night. Fairfax was a bedridden and bedrunk decadent who had not the courage afterward to face what he had done. That is all."

ZIMMERMAN

Mrs. Cornelia Zimmerman has been confined to her bed with rheumatism. Mrs. Andy O'Hara and daughter of Belmont, attended services at this place Sunday morning.

Lewis Bailey, wife and two children of Tippecanoe City, attended the Sunday School and church at Zimmerman Sunday morning and visited the former's father, Mr. Marian Bailey and wife.

The Community Club met Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Moyer gave a very interesting talk on Week-Day Religious Education, explaining why the Bible could not be taught in the schools as a part of the regular school work because in the United States the school and Church are separated. Also because all of the taxpayers who support our public schools are not of the same religious faith, there being Catholics and Jewish, as well as Protestant taxpayers. He stressed the necessity of Protestant Christians promoting Religious Instruction because of the great lack of such teaching among the Protestant children as compared with the children of the other faiths mentioned. Citing the following statistics given by the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath School work, that the average Protestant child receives 25 hours religious instruction per year, while the Catholic child receives 200 hours, and the Jewish child 325 hours per year.

Mr. Moyer told of the interest shown in this work in Dayton and other places where it has been a great success. The teaching being done by train ed teachers and instruction suited to the age and grade of the child. Only the Bible stories and truth accepted by all denominations are taught, there being no sectarianism in the lessons. Several schools of Beaver Creek are considering methods and way and means of obtaining such instruction for their respective pupils. Surely such a worthy cause should receive hearty support and encouragement.

The meeting of the Faithful Worker's Sunday School class has been postponed from April 17 to April 24 to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Koogler. A radio program will be a feature of the evening.

Ruth, Martha and Thelma Stewart are the latest mumps patients.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.
